Designed for anyone new to basketball or refereeing with a focus on house league and primary school age basketball. It is a user-friendly introduction to basic basketball rules with a focus on helping to provide fun participation opportunities for young players. The training provides very basic referee information and a general overview of what to expect when you start refereeing. It also aims to keep the role of the referee as simple and easy as possible to avoid the 'over-refereeing' of young players. Can be facilitated or self-taught.

CBPD 2022

Thank you to everyone who registered and joined us virtually on Saturday, September 17th for Canada basketball's first CBPD tip-off event. There were some great discussions that took place in each session. Thank you to our amazing speakers who took time out of their Saturday to share their knowledge. We had some great presentations surrounding Equity, Diversity & Inclusion, 3x3, Creating a team environment among officials, FIBA rule changes and the NOCP pathway. We are hopeful events like CBPD continue to push the game of basketball forward, and we are excited for the future of officials in Canada, and the growing global community of officials.

The rest of the sessions will be released on game plan periodically throughout the next couple of months.

2022 CANADA SUMMER GAMES

CBOC and Canada Basketball would like to thank all the officials and referee coaches who were apart of the officiating crew at the 2022 Canada Summer Games. Congratulations on a successful tournament!

24 referees and 6 referee coaches from across Canada came together at Niagara College on Saturday, August 6th for a two day pre-competition clinic. The clinic focused on Individual Officiating Techniques, standard criteria for call selection, communication, and teamwork. The group did some classroom work, two on-floor sessions and ran the FIBA beep test in preparation for the Canada Games tournament which began on Monday, August 8th. This was CBOC's first ever pre-competition clinic and we were very pleased with the results as it allowed for all referees to have a great foundation for the competition. The building of teamwork was also a great benefit to the group.

The men's and women's competition featured some very athletic teams and saw some intense action on the court. Congratulations to both the referee team and the referee coaches for their fine work during the Canada Games competition.
